

What the harness assumes concurrency = $\lceil C \cdot S \rceil$ workers, each turning a request round in exactly S

so capacity = concurrency / $S = C$

What a worker actually pays true capacity = concurrency / ($S + ov$) = $C \cdot S / (S + ov)$ — the same ov costs proportionally more when S is short